Hartranft Lighting Design

opportunities for a diverse customer base ranging from architects, interior designers and lighting designers to electrical contractors and distributors.

Utilizing products solely from Hubbell's product offering, the design seeks to reflect upon the company's rich history and product offering while refreshing their brand and expanding their reach to the architectural design community.

When Hubbell Lighting sought to update their training facility at their LEED Platinum headquarters facility, they entrusted the lighting designer to create a contemporary scheme which demonstrates their brands while providing interactive learning
